The Days of Grant.

[From the New York Sun.]

Within the White House room
Where gentle Hayes lies snoring,
Fond memory starts a boom,
The days of Grant restoring;
The rogues, the Rings, the whiskey kings,
The piles of cash then squandered;
The secret deals, the shameless steals,
At which the people wondered.

Boss Shepherd rules the town
With profit and with pleasure;
Babcock trots up and down,
And brings his rod to measure;
While Robeson spends, for self and friends,
A vast amount of money.
And all in power employ the hour
To gather heaps of honey.

Once more the gifts pour in
To his Imperial Highness;
Lobbies again begin
Their work with wondrous alacrity;
Men who can pay our rulers away,
According to their natures,
And Grant upsets, with bayonets,
Obnoxious legislatures.

While railroads have their way,
Each grasping corporation
Big dividends can pay,
And charge them to the nation.
The people's faint and weak complaint
Is scouted or forgotten,
While fraud and force pursue their course,
And all is rank and rotten.

Thus in the White House room
Where gentle Hayes lies snoring,
Sad memory starts a boom,
The days of Grant restoring.

The Dexter Enterprise-Messenger has changed from a six column quarto to a nine-column folio. We do not consider the change an improvement.

The Supreme Court of Ohio has decided that it is illegal to dun a debtor on a postal card, as it is liable to injure the credit or reputation of the debtor elsewhere.

New York, following the lead of Pennsylvania, has instructed her delegates to the Chicago Convention to vote for Grant. Vermont's delegation is for Edmunds first, and Grant afterward. The Illinois delegation is for Grant; while Indiana is divided.—There appears to be no doubt that the "man on horseback" will receive the nomination on the first ballot.

The Southeast Missourian urges the immediate organization of the Democratic party of Butler county, and it is right. We wouldn't give a nickel for all the unorganized Democracy the world contains, when it comes to a fight with wrong, or an assault for the right. Butler county has too long been, politically, neither fish, flesh, nor good, sweet ham, and we trust to see matters speedily amended down there.

What next? A piscatorial prophet communicates to a newspaper his predictions for the best days in each month's angling. He says those who observed the days he named last year never failed to have a good catch. This year the days will be as follows, water and weather being favorable: January 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22; February 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18; March 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16; April 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13; May 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 30, 31; June 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 23, 29, 30; July 1, 2, 3, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31; August 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27; September 18 to 23 inclusive; October 15 to 22 inclusive; November 12 to 16 inclusive; December 11 to 13 inclusive.

A large spot, which a very keen eye might be able to distinguish without other assistance than a screen of smoked glass, is now visible near the eastern edge of the sun's disk. Any good spyglass will show it well, but care should be taken to protect the eye with a deeply colored glass held firmly against the eyepiece. A smoked-glass screen gives a pleasant view, but is dangerous because the sooty deposit is apt to get rubbed off. The combination of a green glass with a red one is best, as it allows little heat to reach the eye, and shows the sun's disk free from annoying discoloration. An astronomical telescope shows, in addition to the great spot, a scattered, double cluster of small spots between it and the edge. The disk is marked, in the neighborhood of the spots, with the bright ridges called faculae, which look like crinkled veins of light on the surface of the sun. The great spot is a very perfect specimen of its class, the vast, cavernous hole in the centre, large enough probably for the earth to drop through, looking almost black, with a slight tinge of purple. Near one end a vein of light projects partly across the gulf, and beyond that the black centre breaks through the whitish border. The penumbra surrounding the black portion is broad and well marked, of a grayish color, and bordered with lighter streaks.
